The Melo Alvim House

Melo Alvim House is the oldest urban manor house in Viana do Castelo. Faithfully refurbished, this lordly house of the XVI Century has turned into a comfortable and cosy hotel. Yet respecting the Past, both private and public spaces offer the Guest the comfort of the modern times. Right in the historical nucleus of the town, Melo Alvim House provides the Guest calm and tranquillity.

An exemplary Restoration

If on the one hand the original historic and cultural architectonic lavishness was wisely preserved in the restoration and adaptation to an hotel, on the other hand some details were emphasized and ambiances were created so as to lead the Guest through the distinct stages of the history of Portuguese architecture: “Manuelino”, “Chão” (Plain), “Barroco” (Baroque), “Rococó” (Decadence) and “Romantic”.

The hotel has twenty rooms and suites however with the particularity of none being alike, and decoration of all other areas and saloons follows the same indispensable guide lines. The fabrics used are modern yet resembling the past, according to the chosen style, either by the quality or texture - silks, grosgrains, brocades and damasks - either by the chosen colours and patterns.

Rooms and suites, soberly decorated, have been supplied with up-to-date comfort and refinement.
